

This picture is of a house that is near our hostel. When we look outside our hostel's window, we see it. It is the house of a farmer amidst farms. The nearby village is far away so for better watching of farms, the family has built this temporary house here. They spend nights here when it is harvest time. There is a cool shady tree in front of this house and many colourful birds sit here chirping every time. We see green beautiful parrots and even peacocks. The family members are ever busy as it is harvest time now. They have leisure time at night when they watch TV.

and gossip. All day long they harvest crops as labourers are not easily available here. We like hardworking nature of this village people. They feel no shame in working. Here people are very fond of listening to music and all farmers listen music while driving tractors or sowing or harvesting fields. They have installed music system or use mobiles for that purpose.
